Under New Management

In the short time since Gov. Stevenson emerged from the Chicago convention with the Democratic nomination, significant agreement has been reached on one point about his can-

His heaviest handicap in the campaign will be the necessity of defending the Truman administration. He can be no stronger than his party in the long run, though he was stronger than its divided parts in the Chicago convention.

Gov. Stevenson cannot separate himself from his party. If he tried, he could not be elected. He must run on Mr. Truman's record | in shaping party policy was reveal- endorsement to the mid-term conand on the terms laid down by Mr. Truman's ed in the drive to write into the friends. He is seeking to become Mr. Truman's successor, not his antithesis.

The situation is like that of an enterprise which has gone on the rocks and is trying to rehabilitate public confidence by displaying an "Under New Management" sign.

Until there is some evidence that the management actually has changed for the better, the public will remain skeptical. Gov. Stevensoon is a fresh face in Democratic politics at the national level and an attractive face. But he is heir to all the pressure groups which have shaped the Democratic party since it was taken over by the New Dealers after 1933.

If he tries to resist them, he will alienate them; and they have kept the Democratic coalition in office. If he yields to them, he will alienate voters who have been growing skeptical about the ultimate aims of some of the members of the coalition, chiefly the CIO.

Gen. Eisenhower also has his campaign problems, but one of them is not what to do about being between the devil and the deep

Republican Harmony

It is supposed to be reassuring to Republicans who thought Sen. Taft should be their party's presidential nominee that everything is being smoothed over in behalf of Gen. Eisenhower and Senator Nixon.

But the reassurance which comes from the nominees, and it is undoubtedly sincere, still lacks something. It never was Gen. Eisenhower who affronted the Taft Republicans. Certainly it was not Senator Nixon.

The source of bitterness in the Republican party has been the attitude of the faction of Republicans led by Gov. Dewey. These people have gone far out of their way to show their contempt and disdain for Republicans who thought Sen. Taft was better qualified to head their ticket this year than any other member of the party.

They chose Gen. Eisenhower as the means of keeping Sen. Taft from getting the nomination. Fortunately, the general is great enough in his own right to be equal to the nomination; Taft Republicans will be able to support him enthusiastically .

But they will muster no enthusiasm for the faction which has been riding roughshod over the rest of the party, on the arrogant assumption that it had all the answers. Taft Republicans will work for the election of Eisenhower and Nixon, but not for the vindication of arrogance in a representative democracy.

Those Were The Days

The strident voice of William O'Dwyer, U.S. ambassador to Mexico, has shattered forgetfulness about one of the most shameful passages in the drab record of cover-up politics.

When the former mayor of New York City was reported to be considering permanent residence in Mexico as a citizen of that country, he created a violent scene in an embassy press conference, calling the reporter who had written the story an assortment of purple names.

The O'Dwyer affair had been out of mind recently-but those were the days. Grand juries and Senate investigators had been closing in on New York City corruption. William O'Dwyer, mayor of the city, was in for a bad time. He had just been re-elected, but his luck had run out.

Suddenly, he decided to retire. Just as suddenly, he was appointed U.S. ambassador to Mexico. By the time the Kefauver investigation reach New York, the city's leading Democrat was an ambassador. He consented to testify, doing neither himself nor his associates any good, but the possibility of damage had been neatly sidestepped by a decision in the White House. You can't pull the official string on an ambassador. As it may turn out, you can't even make him come home to his own country.

A number of old fossils were discovered in Indiana. Why not run them for some office?

The aim of the southern Republican revolters-largely pro-Eisenhower forces—was to take control of the party machinery away from the Old Guard regulars. For years this faction in control has been operated more like a private club than a party of the people.

The Old Guard machine gained and maintained more power by having the Republican Party's national ticket defeated than it stood to gain in victory. This was the condition that led to the rise of pro-Eisenhower forces in the southern elections would give the voters a state conventions.

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Welcome The King

New York racing authorities wound up their "Things-as-They-Ain't" routine with a Saratoga-at-Jamaica meeting. Nobody could possibly mistake Jamaica for the famous Spa, but Shudda Haddim made a good try at it.

"Where are you going?" we asked him yesterday as he walked south while northbound. "I am at Jamaica for the baths," he replied. "For the baths?" we repeated. "Yeah. You've heard of the historic mineral springs of the Long Island potato belt, of course. Ah, the beauty and tradition of the glorious Jamaica Spa!" he replied. "I'm getting an early start today. I wanna see the historic battlefield where Arnold fell. It's somewhere between Bemis Heights and Mulligan's luncheonette."

Shudda Hahhim really went all out to get into the spirit of the Saratoga-at-Jamaica meeting. "I love the rustic beauty of Jamaica, unspoiled by commercialism," he went on. "On the long, sweeping verandas of the Bide-a-Wee Tourist Lodge the ghosts of Lillian Russell, Diamond Jim Brady, U. S. Grant and the illustrious founders of American racing walk again. Once more I see the tally-ho filled with the Vanderbilts of another era wind its way among the delicatessen stores and hamburger stands where American racing was cradled. It's wonderful!"

"Aren't you a little mixed up?" we asked. "No," he replied. "I am Shudda Haddimat-Haddim Shudda this week. I play only tips from my Bowie-at-Hialeah pals and I don't play a horse on the nose unless it has a Flatbushat-Churchill-Downs background. Bet this for me, will ya?"

He handed us a wrinkled piece of paper. "This is just a laundry check," we said. "You're nuts. It's the new kind of money. a Washington-Mint-at-Lee-Foo's-Laundry deuce," he explained.

WELL, ANYHOW, King Farouk left without trying to take the pyramids. . . . A strange character, Farouk. . . . With the world in turmoil he could always tune out with a dice box, a wheel and a couple of high face cards, . . . While the globe worried over flying saucers, he concentrated on flying champagne glasses. . . . What a revolt! . . . The king was given the heave-ho with gala ceremonials, including handshakes and 21-gun salutes. . . . He was thrown out with the "It couldn't happen to a better gambler" routine. . . . A few days later he showed up in the royal yacht off Capri, apparently happy and carefree and seeming to say, "Let there be music and wine! This dosn't happen to a man every day."

He doesn't know where to go, but the Egyptians can tell him. . . . Farouk hints he may come to America. . . . We import ex-monarchs in good and bad shape and can arrange exhibition tours, video programs, Stork Club telecasts, luncheons at Sardi's and a "Hello crumbbum" from Toots Shor. . . . We have no camels, but Farouk never was much of a camel man anyhow. . . . (A fat man looks awful pulling up to a nitery on a dromedary.) . . . . The king is reported to have $100,000,000 stashed away, exclusive of a fortune in gold on his yacht. . . . Let's have a welcome parade up Broadway; we haven't seen that much money enter America in years.

THE BANK TELLER who went out to lunch and spent $10,000 of the bank's dough has been sent to the hoosegow. . . . An example had to be made of people who go to lunch these days and order the complete meal, including coffee and dessert. . . . Major General Grow has lost his command for six months for letting his diary and other notes fall into the hands of the Russians. . . . He should have made them wait until they could buy the book-like all the other Americans have done. . ; . "Supercilious" won a recent race at $33. . . . And Shudda Haddim is still moaning, "I had just been thrown out of the clubhouse by a society guy I used to know, who gives me the old look of scorn. . . . and I don't get no hunch!" . . . . The Marciano-Matthews fight could have been broadcast and telecast during a station identification period.

The Saratoga racing season opens this week and Shudda Haddim is taking his bankroll up for the baths. . . . Here we are in August and the question of the hour is, "Whatever became of May, June and July?". . . . When Governor Stevenson was in college his nickname was "Rabbit," which may explain why he got the jump so easily on all the other candidates at Chicago. . . . This is National Seen-Any-Flying-Saucers Month. . . . The Democratic candidate for President cracked down hard on the horsemeat-in-hamburg gang in Illinois but will be up against a stiffer job in Washington where some folks are not above putting common glue in cheeseburgers.

Sailor Faces Murder Charge In Slaying

COLUMBUS, O. (P)-A 28-yearold Port Columbus sailor was to be arraigned on a first degree murder charge today in connection with the death last Thursday of a Columbus housewife. Police Sgt. William E. Donner and Det. Charles L. Phillips brought the sailor, Robert Gemmell, back to Columbus Sunday night from East St. Louis, Ill., where he had fled. The murder charge was filed last Friday in Municipal Court.

Gemmell is accused of killing Mrs. Laura Grimshaw, 25, wife of a buddy of Gemmell's who also was stationed at the Port Columbus Naval Air Station.

Illinois police said Gemmell had admitted he choked the attractive housewife to death in her home after she had threatened to tell his wife of their affair.

What makes Allie's record even more remarkable is that at the end of the '51 season it was questionable whether Reynolds would pitch again. He had complained of a sore elbow and an operation was recommended. The Oklahoman refused and said he'd go along with the old elbow.

The Yankee brass raised their eyebrows in amazement and were most upset about the turn of events.

However, at last look, Manager Stengel was noticed in the process of checking his pitching staff. Those with arms and elbows in poor records to match were ordered to place their strong flippers under the wheels of a slow moving trailer truck until crunching sounds could be heard.

Baseboard Heating Systems Gain Popular Favor Better Insulation Of Homes

Home building, modernization and repair being at its height now, in the warmest days of summer, it is far from incongruous to be thinking of heating systems.

Coming into high favor is baseboard heating, introduced just after World War II. It eliminates the standing radiator and provides an even heat from an unseen source. which extends the length of cold exterior walls at the baseboards.

Baseboard heating equipment can employ either forced circulation hot water or vapor heating systems, but manufacturers generally recommend forced hot water, because temperature control is more accurate.

This equipment can be installed to replace existing baseboards, and in some cases can be fastened on the face of existing baseboards since it is particularly adaptable to home remodeling and modernization, as well as to building.

MANUFACTURERS CLAIM that temperature variance between floor and ceiling is maintained at less than three degrees, since the systems throw a blanket of rising heat over exterior walls and win-

THE HOBBY ROOM is the center of this home. A center of books, music, crafts, painting, games, it has access to gardening, outdoor sports and supervised play, to indoor study, sewing, resting, television, to kitchen snacks, to basement recreation room or photo darkroom, to living room conversation and card games. With its own barbecue fireplace the hobby room becomes an indoor porch. This is plan 9255 by Rudolph A. Matern, architect, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica 2. N. Y. It covers 1,817 square feet.
